A Week of Brilliant Events in the World of Society.

GAY GATHERINGS OF EVERY KIND.

A Pink Tea-A Number of Weddings Past and to Come-Preparing for the Summer Campaign.

A review of society during the past seven days escapes from the week like the foam from a champagne bottle, light, airy and with an amusing fizz. The entertainments given have been of a character so charming Is to remain in the memory, each a bright spot set in a large surface of springtime dullness. Visitors, and winsome ones, too, have been the acknowledged occasion for several social functions, something new in face, form, thought and personality lending a charm of variety that has a distinctly agreeable flavor at this time o' the year.

The winter's whirl in microcosm has un-wound itself pleasantly, leaving a scent of roses in the nostrils and the renewed enjoyment of an aural caress in some remembered strain of music. All of which stirs deep in the hearts of the frivolous men and maidens and the patriarch's and matriarchs a certain homesickness for the whinsical amusements that come after the autumn blaze of glory with the first touch of frost,

A Little German.

On Thursday evening the German class under the tutelage of Mr. Ado Brachvogel met at his residence, where they gave their closing reading of the season. A portion of the fifth act of 'Marie Stuart' was the selection and it was rendered admirably both in the original and in translation, reflecting flattering credit on Mr. Brachvogel's exceptional powers as an instructor. After the lesson Mr. Brachvogel read charmingly in his musical German the parting between Leicester and Mary. A supper party and some delightful selections on the zither and piano followed, Mrs. Hitchcock, Mrs. Festner and Mr. Leutz affording the latter entertainment. affording the latter entertainment.

A Decided Innovation.

On last Saturday evening a number of young men and pretty girls urged by a general feeling of joviality conceived the notion of going for a hay ride. Execution followed quickly on suggestion and a gay disposed of themselves comfortably in the hay-filled box of a wagon. Jolting over stony ways and bowling along smoothly over the asphalt pavement were alike provocative of laughter and enjoyment, and the bananas and soda water that constituted the refreshment water that constituted the refreshment afforded as much intoxication to youth and high spirits as any quantity of champagne could later on in the lesson of growing old. The party consisted of Miss Irma Balch, Miss May Burne Miss Mayer May Burns, Miss Georgie Sharp, Miss Mary Duryea, Miss Nina Marshall, Miss Helen Smith, Miss Margaret Moore, Mr. Harry Moores, Mr. Billy Colfay Mr. Sol Jol Mr. Jacobs, Mr. Frank Burleigh and Mr. George Miner.

A Yellow Luncheon,

Mrs. Percy Ford gave a charming luncheon on Thursday afternoon in honor of her friend, Miss Menziels. Yellow roses on the table and as favors constituted nature's contribution, while a menu of all imaginable dainties was calculated to give more material pleasure. Mrs. Ford is a woman gifted with rare conversational abilities and a certain bright conversational abilities and a certain bright charm of manner that in a hostess directly dispells formality and promotes the truest enjoyment. Cards followed the luncheon, the game affording opportunities for gossip and a display of skill as well. Those who graced the occasion were Mrs. Hulse, Mrs. Keller, Mrs. Hitchcock, Mrs. Mallory, Miss Menziels, Miss Belle Kimball, Miss Lyonberger and Miss McClintock.

Omaha's Musical Loss. Miss Carrie Maude Pennock, whose clear soprano voice has lent charms to many public and private gatherings during the past year, has taken leave of her large circle of friends in Omaha for a sojourn in New York city. She left last evening in company with her mother for a short visit with relatives in western New York, after which both will es-tablish headquarters in New York city and Miss Pennock will continue her favorite study under the best masters of the metropolis. Miss Pennock has become widely known in Omaha musical and social circles as the possessor of rare musical powers, happily blended with a native grace and vivacity of manner always to be noted in her whether on the stage or in the drawing room. The series of musical sources given by her during the past season at some of the best appointed homes in this city have been before referred to as of the highest merit, enlisting the sup-port of leading musicians. The loss of her energy and inspiration in musical circles can not easily be repaired, but Miss Pennock can be assured of an army of well wishers, many of whom have predicted for her a bright future in the musical world.

Last Friday was the Twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Richardson, which occurred in Buffalo, N. Y., the home of their childhood, May 9, 1865. To them have been born three children-two sons and a daughter. The cidest son resides in Chicago; the daughter is a teacher in the public school at Albright, and the younger son is attending the Wesleyan university at Lincoln. It had been the in-tention of Mr. and Mrs. Richardson to celebrate the event in a becoming manner, but the continued illness of the latter made it essary to abandon the idea.

However, their friends becoming aware of the the coming anniversary took the matter into their own hands and determined on a surprise, which was effectually carried out. They filled the parlors of the Exchange hotel, and after Mrs. Richardson had been wheeled in in an easy chair the Rev. D. Marquette, in some very fitting and appropriate remarks, presented in behalf of the friends a beautiful silver tea set, upon which was inscribed:

Presented to Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Richardson by friends in the First M. E. church, South Omaha, May 9, 1800. Ice cream and cake had been provided for a hundred participants, but the inclemency of the weather kept a number away. The evening was heartily enjoyed by all, and

A number of other presents were received, among which was a set of solid silver spoons from Mr. E. E. THE DOWNFALL OF FRANK CLARK

The sentencing of Frank Clark of York to the penitentiary for breaking into a saloon and stealing a drink is the sad ending of the career of a once prosperous farmer. Clark a few years ago commenced with nothing and few years ago commenced with nothing and through his industry, sobriety and frugality acquired a splendid farm but a short distance from York and had it finely stocked. Pros-perity proved too much for him and he took to drink. He neglected his crops and stock and it was not long before he had his farm heavily mortgaged. The money thus ac-quired went into the tills of the vendors of whisky and the subguid comprehence sligned whisky, and the splendid competence slipped from his fingers, leaving him only a team of horses. He then went to York and went into the dray business, but his love for liquor soon robbed him of his horses and the scanty furniture in his home. Finally he found himself without a cent on earth with which to buy a drink and yielding to the insatiable craving for stimu-lants he broke into the saloon where he had squandered thousands of dollars and for the ast time filled himself with intoxicants. He was found dead drunk by the proprietor and was arrested for house-breaking. He was tried and convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary, but as his attorney believes the penalty too severe he has appealed the case to the supreme court for a reversal of the de-private bankers that directly relates to the conduct of the business, but not concerning the other enterprises that may be conducted by the bankers, and of course directly affects their banks. Thus, suppose the proprietor of a private bank is the owner also of three or four lumber yards and is owing some enormous bills for lumber. Sometimes to pay he may have to draw heavily upon his bank. This of course directly affects the stability of the bank, and yet it is the hardest part of our work to get such information." "What do you think of the fact that seventy-one banks of the state are disobeying the banking law that went into effect a year "Well, I think that in nearly every case the disobedience is due to ignorance or neg-lect and is not intentional. A great many successful farmers or merchants embark in the banking business and of course are not familiar with the laws governing the same. When the banking law went into effect a year ago if we had insisted that it be lived up to strictly immediately, it would have wrought great financial ruin. Many of the banks were loaded up with real estate and would have had to dispose of it at a sacrifice, while the immediate enforcement of the law concerning rediscounting would have pushed many banks to the wall. We are endeavoring to gradually force the banks into a legal method of business without making them
